Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-10 and 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, it is unclear if the filter material is being positively recited.

In claim 5, the phrase "such that an axis through the opening parallel to a longitudinal axis of the catheter is vague and unclear.

In claim 21, it is unclear what a "transverse axis of the tube" is.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1 and 3-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Mazzochi, et al.-6605102.

Mazzochi discloses a distal protection device having a catheter with two sets of struts on the distal end which can expand outwardly. They constitute a filtering material when expanded. As seen in fig. 13 and 14, the two filters are individually actuatable.

The filter materials and struts are shape-memory materials.

Claims 1,2,4,5 and 7-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Samson, et al.-6066149.

Samson discloses a catheter having two separate filtering portions on the distal end. A pull wire or core wire can be attached to the distal tip to cause it to be withdrawn thus causing the expansion of the filtering members. As seen in fig. 3A, the distal section achieves a larger expanded diameter than the proximal portion. The filter materials and struts are shape-memory materials.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bates, et al.-6348056.

Bates discloses a catheter having a distal filtering section formed by a larger proximal section and a smaller distal section. The filter materials and struts are shape-memory materials.

Claims 1,3,4,6-13 and 15-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by WO 01/45590- Zadno-Azizi.

Zadno-Azizi discloses a distal protection device including a catheter having two differently-sized filtering portions on the distal end. The filters are formed by slits in the catheter tube. The expansion of the filters are performed by a central pull wire 1101 or 1310 which when pulled causes the slitted sections to buckle and expand radially.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 2 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zadno-Azizi-'590.

Zadno-Azizi discloses the invention as claimed with the exception of the smaller filter being located proximally of the larger one. It would have been an obvious mere rearrangement of known parts to have switched the two filters as either configuration would perform equally as well.
